PRESIDENT'S WELCOME

We are happy you could join us at the 92nd annual Michigan Safety Conference.

This year's conference theme is "We Care." Care involves alertness, mindfulness, vigilance. Which in turn, requires serious attention and consideration in doing something correctly to avoid risk, damage and injury.

Care is necessary for the health, welfare, maintenance, and protection of people, places, and the environment.

"We Care" is the reason 2,000+ plus attendees participate in the Michigan Safety Conference in person. This conference features over 120 quality educational programs and more than 200 exhibitors which address risk assessment techniques, regulatory changes and requirements, the latest PPE advancements, engineering solutions as well as numerous other EHS topics.

Four years ago, no one would have imagined we would be experiencing a pandemic. Businesses and communities relied on their EHS teams to assist them in creating and continually enhancing their efforts to ensure safe environments during the health crisis. The conference provides expertise and networking opportunities for everyone to continue to care. We thank you for participating in this year's Michigan Safety Conference and continuing to demonstrate that "We Care."

2023 AWARDS

Darryl C. Hill Safety Professional of the Year

Matt Payne

Safety Director, Ajax Paving Industries, Inc.

Matt Payne has been employed at Ajax Paving Industries since 2019 as the Safety Director and has been working in the safety industry for a total of 12 years. Matt holds a B.S. in Occupational Safety & Health from Oakland University. He maintains an Associate Safety Professional (ASP) credential and is actively working to earn his Certified Safety Professional (CSP) credential. Matt participates in several safety committees such as Asphalt Paving Association of Michigan (APAM) and the American Contractors Insurance Group (ACIG) Heavy Civil Peer Group.

Prior to working at Ajax Paving, Matt worked within the automotive manufacturing sector. Matt's current scope at Ajax covers both construction and general industry standards. Ajax Paving's business includes asphalt and concrete highway, street, test track, and airport paving construction projects. In addition, Ajax Paving operates seven hot mix asphalt plants, twelve portable concrete plants, and one liquid asphalt terminal.

Safety culture is top priority with Ajax Paving and Matt. In the last four years, Matt and his team have improved safety practices, procedures, training, and increased worker engagement in safety discussions. One of the most difficult challenges for the road construction industry is making sure employees are protected from vehicular and equipment traffic. A few ways this was accomplished was by:

- Working with the American Road & Transportation Builders Association (ARTBA) and American Transportation Safety Services Association (ATSSA) to host specialized road construction training for employees.
- Integrating innovative lighting solutions on paving projects to improve worker visibility.
- Incorporating fleet training for CDL employees that focuses on defensive driving and safe driving behaviors.
- Organizing an annual company-wide safety conference at the start of the year and several mid-year company safety events.

In addition to his normal duties Matt was challenged with keeping Ajax employees safe from the Covid-19 virus. To do this, Matt formed a task force, maintained information pertaining to CDC and State of Michigan guidelines, and instituted safety plans to protect employees while building Michigan roads. Matt and the task force managed training, policies, signage, contact tracing, Covid-19 testing, and distributed Covid-19 specific PPE for all employees. As a result, Ajax did not suffer any fatalities or extremely serious illnesses related to the Covid-19 virus.

This year Matt and the Ajax Safety Committee are bringing mental health awareness training to the forefront. Mental health and suicide prevention training has already been made available and toolbox talks related to mental health have been developed for 2023. Additionally, the topics of mental health and workplace de-escalation are planned for this year's safety events which will focus on eliminating the stigma associated with mental health and providing resources to Ajax employees.

Congratulations, Matt, on being named the 2023 Darryl C. Hill Safety Professional of the Year!
